Meet The Founder

The Vision Behind D-Light

Over a decade ago, when solar in India was still a subsidised experiment, Mr. Pratik Dhameliya saw what most others missed, that the future of Indian energy would not be built in distant power plants, but on millions of ordinary rooftops. From a single office in Surat, he set out with a clear conviction:

India does not need to import its energy future. India needs to harvest it.

What began as a small EPC venture has, under his leadership, grown into one of India's most trusted solar names, with over 16,000 installations, 42,000+ KW commissioned, 100+ high-rise projects under PM Surya Ghar, and a footprint across four states.

But ask him what he is most proud of, and he will not name a project or a number. He will speak of the factory owner in Bhavnagar whose monthly bill dropped from lakhs to thousands. The first-generation homeowner in Surat who told him solar gave his family their first real sense of financial freedom. The young engineer he hired five years ago who now leads an entire project vertical.

INDIA'S 1

In PM Surya Ghar High-Rise Projects

The Tallest Achievement in Indian Solar

When the Government of India launched the PM Surya Ghar - Muft Bijli Yojana, most EPC companies focused on individual homes. We saw a bigger opportunity - and a bigger challenge.

Solar for high-rise buildings.

Multi-tower societies. Hundreds of flats. Shared rooftops. Complex DISCOM coordination. Subsidy filings for every single unit.

While the industry called it "too complicated," we called it our specialty.

Today, D-Light Solar is India's leading EPC for high-rise solar under the PM Surya Ghar Yojana with 100+ completed high-rise projects to our name.

No other EPC in India has powered as many vertical communities under this scheme.

When the country's tallest buildings needed solar,

They called D-Light.
